Weekly Program Highlights

MORNING SHOW: CSB+ Reduced Due to Shortage of Plumpy Nuts

FSL partners alerted residents of Bentiu PoC that there will be a reduction in numbers of cereal soya bean (CSB+) for children during the General Food Distribution. Food agencies give 3 bags of CSB+ per child in their routine food distributions. While appearing on the radio program, WFP's staff informed the PoC community that they will provide only 1 bag per child instead of 3 bags. The FSL staff said that they had run out of Plumpy Nuts and will instead give out CSB+ to malnourished children in the meantime. He requested for patience and cooperation as this is the only alternative. Kondial FM interviewed some residents in Sector 3 who promised their support and cooperation with WFP until they get the nutritional stuff for the children. ●

BEYOND BENTIU RESPONSE SHOW: Farmers Received Agriculture Tools

The role of the FSL partners is to engage and encourage communities to farm so they can have enough food. A week ago, Mercy Corps distributed farming tools to over 50 farmers in Bentiu town. While appearing on a radio show, a Mercy Corps staff said they distributed rakes, forks hoes, maluda, pumps, pangas and watering cans to 53 farmers under their support in Bentiu town. The NGO staff said that they are engaging farmers in the production of enough food to minimize reliance on food aid. Several farmers interviewed by Kondial FM expressed appreciation to Mercy Corps for providing them with agricultural tools. ●

EDUCATION SHOW: Students Need for Additional Scholastic Materials

Feedback gathered from students of Nyueljul some weeks back indicated that they lacked exercise books and pens to enable them attend school. The students mentioned that the scholastic items they received some months ago were used up. Kondial FM team reported the feedback to the education cluster for action. INTERSOS appeared on the radio and assured them that they will distribute scholastic material to students at Nyueljul Primary in a week's time from the time of the airing of the programme. INTERSOS urged students to be patient as they arrange for the intervention. ●

SPECIAL EVENT: 8th Anniversary Independence Celebrated in Bentiu

"Promote peace, love and unity". These were messages women sent out during the celebration of South Sudan's 8th independence anniversary. After the event, Kondial FM interviewed women in the PoC on how women can help bring peace. Katrina Nyawuong representing a women's group in the PoC said that they have hope and aspire for peace to prevail in South Sudan. Some women said they are working to promote peace, love and unity among people of South Sudan and hope that the 9th anniversary will find no one in the PoC. They asked govt and opposition parties to speed up the peace implementation process so that people can return to their places of origin. ●

Youth Discuss Gender Base Violence in Pamir

During and awareness training in Pamir camp, a women protection and empowerment officer explained in detail what gender-based violence. Jamjang FM recorded and broadcast the programme which featured issues on gender inequality and how it leads to sexual harassment, assault, verbal and physical abuse. IRC WPE staff said that, youth engagement in GBV programs is important to raise awareness about the disadvantages of GBV as well as enable them to play a crucial role in combating GBV. A participant said that GBV is a phenomenon deeply rooted in gender inequality, stressing that the GBV is the most prevalent human rights violation which should be collectively discouraged in the community. ●

Helping Inform Breastfeeding Mother Misconceptions

Appearing live on Jamjang FM's Health Program, a group of health workers from Hakima Yacoub hospital in commemoration of the World Breastfeeding Day, advised mothers to stick to exclusive breastfeeding to enable their child gain healthy weight. The group said that a mother's breast milk enables a child's bones grow stronger and provides antibodies that resist diseases like pneumonia. They added that breastfeeding during the night enables the mother to generate hormones that promote the healthy growth of a child. ●

Weekly Program Highlights

Peace & reconciliation program: Youth Are Peacebuilders in The Community

Youths need to actively participate in peacebuilding in their communities. To ensure that this is well understood and put into practice by the youth, Nile FM peace & reconciliation program producer mobilized youths to suggest ways to get involved in creating harmony in their communities. A community member said youths can play a role in peacebuilding through organizing friendly sports activities. He added that organizing football, volleyball or basketball tournaments could have a positive impact in peacebuilding among the youths. Another person said that avoiding hate speech and alcohol will create a safe environment. Others added that people should prioritise peace within families and denounce conflict. Building capacity of the youth through training or workshops could help spread peace messages in the community. Youths are the backbone of the community added an elder. ●

Protection program: CWG Learns to Be More Engaging During Night

Patrols

Nile FM protection program producer engaged the Community Watch Group (CWG) so they can share what they learned from the IMC GBV department training on avoidance of violence during their work. They admitted that before the training they just intimidated the community without carrying out their work in a friendly and helpful manner. But after the training, they learnt good communication with the people and how to help resolve their problems. Another CWG member said that they learnt how to participate in conflict resolution through meditation. The IMC GBV protection officer explained that the purpose of the training was intended to create a safe environment for all residents of the PoC. ●

Business program: the reduction of hunger through cultivation activities

When the Youth Development Association (UNYDA) distributed various types of seeds to communities in Malakal town, Nile FM business program producer asked farmers to share their experiences in vegetable cultivation and how it would help reduce hunger. A farmer, using a proverb said, "The works of your hands will feed you", adding that any family cultivating okra or sorghum will improve the quality of livelihoods and nutrition. Another person said, through cultivation, families will have food for their families and sell the surplus for money to alleviate their family's needs. ●
